Every year the NHS is losing money through fraudulent activity.

Mark will obtain a prescription for an illness he doesn't have.

Ahmed will be paid overtime for hours he didn't work.

Julie will claim for mileage that wasn't exactly work-related.

Luca will dispense a cheaper drug but claim for an expensive one.

Cath will falsify her CV to get a job that she isn't qualified for and Steve will send an invoice for goods that were never delivered.

This is fraud – which costs the NHS millions every year.

Who pays? We all do.
